

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A game object is displayed based on a parameter correlated to an object, and upon recognition of a predetermined voice, the parameter is properly altered in response to the recognized voice. This allows control of an object using voice as well as using an operating means such as a controller, to thereby enhance pleasure of operating the object.